Inspired and Be Inspired

Calling Bruin Guardian Scholars Looking To Fight For Justice

Who we are:

Teach For America is growing the movement of leaders who work to ensure that kids growing up in poverty get an excellent education. We recruit and train remarkable people from all career backgrounds and academic majors to teach in low-income rural and urban school districts and leave a positive impact on their students. They help our nation deliver on the promise of equal opportunity for all kids.

What you’ll do:

Improve opportunities for kids. Expand your leadership abilities. You can have an impact leading a classroom in one of our 52 urban and rural regions nationwide. Our teachers are full-time educators employed by school districts. They receive full salaries and the same comprehensive health benefits as other beginning teachers.

- All professional backgrounds are encouraged to apply
- Two-year teaching commitment (pre-K-12, all subjects)
- Full salary and benefits
- Need-based funding for relocation and transition
- Teaching preparation and leadership development provided
- Application deadlines:
  - October 30, 2015
  - January 15, 2016
  - March 4, 2016

APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS:

- Bachelor’s degree by June 2016 or earlier
- Minimum 2.5 cumulative undergraduate GPA*
- Citizen, national, or legal permanent resident of the United States, or have Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals status

*The GPA requirement is mandated by our partner school districts and credentialing programs. Certain exceptions apply. Please see our website for details.
Why this matters:

Fewer than 10 percent of kids from low-income communities graduate from college. Teach For America is looking for leaders committed to solving this inequity. Our corps members, alumni, and the communities we partner with are part of a dynamic movement proving what’s possible — for kids, for a life of impact, for the future we share.

To learn more about becoming a teacher with Teach For America, visit our website: www.teachforamerica.org

If interested, please email Selina, the Campus Representative: selina.duran@teachforamerica.org.