Preparing UCLA Graduate Students and Postdocs for Careers in Academia

Academic Job Series presents:

Launching Your Academic Job Search and Preparing Effective Application Materials: CVs, Cover Letters, Research and/or Teaching Statements
Date: August 27
Time: 3-5pm
Location: Career Center, Room 200
During this panel program, Graduate Students and Post Docs will learn about the academic job search, targeting job application materials, and personal hiring experiences from recently hired faculty.

Panelists include:
Lindley Winslow, PhD, Assistant Professor, Physics and Astronomy, UCLA
Jesse Rissman, PhD, Assistant Professor, Cognitive Psychology and Behavioral Neuroscience, UCLA
Thomas Vondriska, PhD, Associate Professor, Molecular, Cell & Integrative Physiology and Department of Anesthesiology, Geffen School of Medicine, UCLA
Andrea Kasko, PhD, Associate Professor, Department of Bioengineering, UCLA

Upcoming Events:

Behind the Scenes with the Search Committee: On Campus Interview, Job Talk and Negotiation
Date: September 17
Time: 3-5pm
Location: Career Center, Room 200
During this panel program, Graduate Students and Post Docs will hear directly from faculty who have served on search committees to learn how to stand out as a candidate, pet peeves, and tips for the job talk.

Panel will include faculty from Divisions of Physical Sciences and Life Sciences and Schools of Engineering and Medicine.

RSVP: http://uclaacademicjobseries.eventbrite.com
Questions? Contact us: UCLAAcademicjobseries@gmail.com

The Academic Job Series is a UCLA collaboration of the Graduate Division, Career Center, Graduate Student Resource Center, Graduate Writing Center and the Office of Postdoctoral Affairs in the Biomedical and Life Sciences